Progress of the Artesian Well-Vessels Arriving Daily-First Bals of Cotton Marketed at Velasco.

Correspondence of the Gazette. VELASCO, BRAZORIA COUNTY, TEX., NOV. 6.—Velasco's first bale of cotton was mar-acted to day on the corner of Third street and Avenue C. It was raised by "Uncle" Si n Ovster creek, three and a half miles from own, and was bought by Mr. W. D. M. see, the president of the company, for $50 n gold. It was the center of an enthusias-le crowd of citizens, who wanted to take a a collection and premium Uncle SI, who objected with, "I showed Mr. Lee fru de being hear, an he's gwine ter buy my cotten."

Mr. Lee will keep the bale as a memento. Min. Lee will keep the bale as a memento. Uncle Si wantel a premium on his eart and team also, which for all home manufacture, oddity and ugliness, was richly deserving. The artesian well by the heid was sunk 250 feet to-day, making a total of 350 feet. The work is very rapid, and the 400 feet will likely be reached to-morrow night, at which depth a flow is expected of 250,000 gallons per day.

Committee Appointed to Talk Rates With the Commission-Various Reports Made.

Austin, Tex., Nov. 18.—The stockmen econvened this morning and heard the re-ort of the committee on transportation. The committee stated that no data were on hand, and recommended the appointment of another committee to obtain data as to freight rates on cattle in Texas, and if found exercitant to report the same to the railroad commission. The committee was also directed to appeal to the railroads for a reduction of rates to the cattle markets, should they feel that the livestock interests of Texas demand such reductions.

The committee was appointed, consisting of M. Scusom, J. B. Humphrey, J. W. Snyder, George B. Loving, C. G. Caldwell, J. B. Rector and W. J. Owens.

The question of grading, feeding and caring for livestock was discussed generally.

- A THREE WEEKS' DRUNK

Results in an Attempt at Suicide at Hillsboro-A Burglar's Bath in the Brazos,

HILLSBORO, HILL COUNTY, TEX., NOV. 17.—This morning about 2 o'clock L. V. Falls, recently from Gaston, N. C. attempted suicide at the Tennessee house here, where he has been boarding about a week. He was immediately taken to the waiting He was immediately taken to the waiting room of the county jail by Sheriff J. P. Box and the jail physician called, who responded promptly. After a thorough examination it was discovered that the wound commenced near the right of the carotid artery, extending to the windpipe. The doctor considers the wound very serious, though not necessarily fatal. Falls explains the cause of his despondency by stating that he has been on a protracted supple for three works or more, and that spree for three weeks or more, and that several parties are following him with the intertion of murdering him, and that he came to the conclusion he would kill himself, saving them the trouble of doing so.

Will Tigler, a well known character here, was noticed Saturday night lounging around the tack part of Thornton & Piper's saloon by Policeman George Patterson. Yesterday morning when it was discovered that the saloon had been burglarized Sunday night, an account of which was given in to-day's Gazette, Patterson suspected Tigler as being the guilty party. He set about at once to find him and learned that he had Monday morning been seen by one or more parties to take a freight train going towards Waco. Patterson obtained papers sufficient to secure Tigler's arrest, should he overtake him and deem it necessary. On reaching Waco, Patterson found a party came to the conclusion he would kill him-
